A telegram from Green Island that a P. & O. steamer had been sighted confirmed this impression, and there was a rush of residents to Podder's Wharf. At the same time a detachment of soldlers marched to the wharf to line the route to the Cily Hall and Government House. It was soon discovered, however, that the vorsel signalled was the s. s. China with the American mail, while the P. & O. stenmer sighted was the Venetica which left Singapore twenty-four hours before the Kaiser-i-Hind. There was still a general belief that the steamer bringing the Duke and Duchess would arrive early in the day, and civio officials and prominent residents, who for the occasion appeared in the unwonted aplea-

T .E PRESENTATION OF THE ADDRESS. On the arrival at the City Hall, their Royal Highnesses were escorted to a raised platform in St. George's Hall, where a large crowd of citizens had assembled. Along with them on the platform were His Excellency the Administrator, Vice-Admiral Sir Nawell Salmon, Lady Salmon Major-General Boyan Edwards and Mrs Cavaye, Below the platform were the members of the Legislative Council, and among those in the front reserved seats were Acting Chief Justice Clarke, Mrs Clarke, the Consuls of the various Powers represouted in Hongkong, Officers of the British and foreign men-of-war in the harbour, officers of the regiment and several distinguished citizens.

Mr Ryrie stepped forward and said-It is my ivery pleasing duty to present you with an address of welcome from the inhabitants of this Colony. Hongkong has ever been devoted to the illustrious family to which you belong, its founder having been our illustrious mother, the Queen Empress, and I think I may assure you that every signatory to this address does mean what the address says. The feeling of true loyalty which exists in this email colony cannot be surpressed in any part of Her Majesty's dominions. We have heard of you and your service and are fully convinced that you will care in the future the good opinion of all, as you have done in the past during your sorvice in Bombay and other countries. Telegrams in the Australian papers give fuller particulars of the loss of the Quetta after striking on an unknown rock near Adolphus island in Torres Straits, towards the end of last month. The following statements by passengers give some idea of what followed:-

William Gregory, a passenger, says b was on the upper dock when the vessel struck. The impact did not stop or jerk the vessel much, but she seemed to rip her way through the rock. He remained on the ressel until the very last. He was getting right astern when he was forced to jump overboard. The vessel in going down caused a good doal of suction, with which he was dragged down. Eventually he came Across a boat upside down with nine or ten persons clinging to her, being unable to bail her out, as she was much damaged. They then made for land, picking up the captain and pilot en route. A good deal of wreckage was floating about; also poultry and sheep.
